For Jayride, today's launch of France, Greece, Hungary and Malta is a continuation of Jayride's European expansion, as part of Jayride's international market capture strategy. These 70 airports service 239 million passenger trips each year, which is 3% of the world's 7.7 billion total annual airport passenger trips.

This increases Jayride's market access to 2.62 billion (34%) of the world's 7.7 billion total annual airport passenger trips.

Transport companies in these four new European countries now available to book on Jayride include great local private car and shared shuttle services, and even popular international transport brands.

They service popular destinations; like Paris, Athens, Budapest, and Valletta.

These transport services are now available to be booked by Jayride users.

Six new countries launched in one quarter

Referring to these four launched countries, and the prior launches of Canada and Italy in July and August, Jayride Managing Director Rod Bishop said, "Jayride has previously only been able to launch five countries in total over the lifetime of the Company, but now, utilising Jayride's new transport technology platform, we have been able to successfully launch in another six countries within a single quarter.

"Early results are very promising, in terms of the easy expansion, the low cost of contracting the transport companies, and the initial starting volume of passenger trips booked through the platform.

"We look forward to continuing this rapid expansion."

Looking forward, Jayride intends to use its new transport technology platform to launch further additional countries as part of the Company's international expansion strategy.
